THE FORGOTTEN CONTINUUM
(CIRCA 1880 – 1910)

TRINIDAD. JAMAICA. HAITI.

MEMORIA VIVIT. LUX SPIRAT. VERITAS REGNAT.

Memory lives. Light breathes. Truth reigns.

From the heart of the Caribbean rose pillars of remembrance. Trinidad, Jamaica, and Haiti we will begin - each carrying the same architectural song, the same sacred geometry, the same unbroken flame.

Atlantean echoes, restored in Caribbean hands.

Temples disguised as schools, palaces renamed as parliaments, sanctuaries recast as state halls.

all bearing the signature of a people who remembered what the world forgot.

Photographed between 1880 and 1910,
They reveal continuity.

The Flame never perished. It endured through us.
This truth is not conjecture. It is not up for debate.
It stands by Divine Authority, witnessed in stone, sound, and soul.

The false dream ends here.
The continuum endures.
Never again shall this be forgotten.

Before the market of Port-au-Prince rises the national cathedral, the building of which was attended by so much graft that out of the funds appropriated for it the contractors were able to construct also the best hotel in the city.
